Dr. Lori's "Hate Antiques?" comedy tour stops in Louisville, KY

10th straight year for tour, March 5-7 at 2010 Trend Appliances Home, Garden & Remodeling Show

Do you hate art and antiques? Do you know someone who buys antiques and you think that stuff is just plain ugly, just cluttering up the house? Have you ever dreamed about paying for your next home remodeling or garden landscaping project with your spouse's antique junk? Bring your antiques and your troubled friends with their stuff to Dr. Lori for a much needed intervention!

Attend Dr. Lori's "Hate Antiques?" comedy sessions on March 5-7, 2010 at the Kentucky Expo Center located in Louisville, KY at the junction of I-65 and I-264 and laugh with your friend or spouse about their "collection of clutter". Free antiques appraisals will be available with admission to the Home, Garden & remodeling show as part of Dr. Lori's daily sessions.

As seen on Comedy Central's "The Daily Show with Jon Stewart" and the Fine Living Network, nationally known and funny art and antiques appraiser, syndicated columnist and award winning TV personality and talk show host, Dr. Lori will pull no punches evaluating your friends' or spouse's flea market addictions and sentimental family objects as she makes you all laugh about your junk.

Dr. Lori says, "You'll laugh out loud while learning about your antiques, your friends and even your spouse at my event! I'm not an antique dealer, reseller, or affiliated with any auction house and my evaluations are straightforward and honest. I will not hesitate to tell your friend or spouse that their compulsion for buying and saving items is a sickness, just adding to the clutter.
